To whom it may concern,

Jane Moeller Larsen has been employed at the Computer Clubhouse project, in the Play and Learning consortium, at Learning Lab Denmark¹ from 1 June 2003 to 1 July 2004. During this period, Jane has undertaken the duties of a project and research assistant. Some of her main responsibilities have been to realise internal and external communication concerning the project, and to do research in Computer Clubhouse related topics.

Jane has been involved in the implementation of Computer Clubhouses in Denmark and participated in direct and mediated communication with project instigators in the USA, established partners in Denmark, local politicians, sponsors, researchers and other stakeholders from local businesses, administrations and several ministries.

Hereunder, she has conceptualised and produced project material in letter, folder and report form, communicated through Learning Lab Denmark's website, written electronic articles and articles for Learning Lab Denmark's magazine, made a virtual library, elaborated presentations for seminars, participated in Computer Clubhouse meetings and inaugurations and represented the project at national and international conferences. Her main research has evolved around: marginalized youth, youth and crime, youth empowerment via learning with information and communication technology and media, youth and identity issues (age, gender, ethnicity, citizenship, labour market) and digital divide problematics.

I warmly recommend Jane for both research oriented and management positions. Her unique mixture of strong intellectual capabilities, creative approach to communication and creation, in combination with her warm and positive personal drive makes her a good colleague and a valued employee. Please do not hesitate to contact me for further information.

Best regards

Søren Kjær Jensen

Consortium Director, Play and Learning

¹ Learning Lab Denmark is an independent Danish research and development centre with a vision to expand public awareness of the role of learning in the transition to the knowledge society (www.lld.dk). A Computer Clubhouse is an informal and after-school learning space, where underserved youth is empowered through the production of artwork and media with information and communication technology.

Operation Dagsværk

Til rette vedkommende

Udtalelse vedrørende Jane Møller Larsen.

Jane Møller Larsen var kontraktansat på Operation Dagsværk i perioden marts til september 2002. I denne periode var hun ansat til at designe, udføre og redigere en omfattende videokomponent i et undervisningsmateriale udarbejdet på cd-rom. Janes opgave var at udarbejde en række landeprofiler samt temainterviews med diverse partnere i flere forskellige lande. Arbejdsprocesserne bestod hovedsagligt i research, videotilrettelægning, redigering, interviews, fotografering og formidling

Jane Møller Larsen udfoldede sine arbejdsprocesser på bedste vis. Qua sine gode sprogegenskaber og generelle indsigt i globale sociopolitiske forhold, samt hendes professionelle faglige kompetencer, var Jane et oplagt valg til den ofte meget krævende arbejdsproces.

I en samlet bedømmelse af Janes arbejde vil jeg fremhæve hendes visionære, energiske og ansvarlige tilgang til arbejdet. Med et aldrig svigtende overblik og en fleksibel tilgang til projektet, fik Jane udarbejdet et yderst prisværdigt og kompetent materiale der også siden er blevet anmeldt fremragende og brugt flittigt på de danske ungdomsuddannelser.

Det er derfor med oprigtig stemme at jeg på det varmeste kan anbefale Jane Møller Larsen som en yderst visionær, kompetent og inspirerende samarbejdspartner.

Såfremt der er brug for yderligere oplysninger og vurderinger af Jane Møller Larsen ansættelse på Operation Dagsværk, står jeg naturligvis til disposition.

Med venlig hilsen

To Whom it May Concern,

While studying International Development at Roskilde University in Denmark, Jane Möller Larsen served an internship under my supervision at the International Institute for Democracy and Electoral assistance (International IDEA) in Stockholm, Sweden. The four month internship took place in the period 30th of October 2000 to 26th of February 2001 with her undertaking the duties of website editor in preparation for International IDEA's Democracy Forum 2001, entitled "Democracy and the Information Revolution: Values, Opportunities and Threats".

Jane's responsibilities included the planning, implementation and maintenance of the Democracy Forum 2001 website. I commend the enthusiasm and sense of task with which she undertook her task. Her desire to become involved in not only this topic, but also understand the various projects within the Institute and how they could relate to the Forum topic were of significant benefit long after her internship concluded. Her conceptualisation of what needed to be made available and the manner through which she achieved this created a strong atmosphere of buy-in and ownership amongst the various programs within International IDEA.

Additionally, Jane entered into a work environment in which 65 people from 32 countries worked. She quickly became known to the majority of the staff and had excellent working relationships with all those with whom she interacted, regardless of their nationality. Within my Information Division she was a valued member of the team from the very beginning and as I recognized her abilities, more responsibility was given to her.

In conclusion, I wish to give my strong support for Jane Möller Larsen as a highly competent communications professional.

Should you have further questions regarding Jane and her work with International IDEA, please do not hesitate to contact me.
